LONDON, April 6.—Threat of drastic Allied action against Nazi Germany, and possibly Russia, loomed over Scandinavia and the Balkans today as Britain and France tightened their economic knot on the Reich's trade channels.

French blockade Minister Georges Bonnet resumed his conferences with British Economic Warfare Minister Ronald Cross. Together they laid out Allied plans for choking off German imports throughout the world, including Soviet Pacific ports.

Another Agreement

Britain announced another victory in the economic warfare—an agreement with the Netherlands whereby the neutral neighbor of Germany will not re-export her surplus materials or imported goods to the Reich except by special government permission.

Holland became the ninth neutral with whom Britain has negotiated such agreements. The others are Iceland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Belgium, Turkey, Greece and Spain.

Negotiations are now progressing toward similar pacts with Rumania, Yugoslavia and Switzerland. In order to completely seal her blockade of Germany, Britain now only needs agreements with Italy, Russia, Bulgaria and Hungary.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Old Man Winter, after making a record during the past few months, appears reluctant to take his departure. Temperature was recorded down around 20 degrees in this locality this morning.

Count of traffic on the New Castle-New Bedford road is being made by an "automatic eye" machine just this side of Parkstown Corners, Pa. News is informed.

A large sky-liner went over New Castle, heading east, on Friday night. It was travelling high.

Starting at 3:43 p. m. Sunday, the eclipse of the sun will start, and is expected to reach its height by 5:02 o'clock. It will terminate at 6:15 o'clock. Remember the warning that if you want to look at the eclipse, use smoked glasses.

Next week automobiles will park on the north or upper side of Neshaunock avenue instead of the south side or Neshaunock creek side, according to Traffic Commissioner Thomas Jones. The north side is in need of repair hence Jones desires to give motorists the good section of the avenue to drive upon.

Quite a number of detour marks are noted on the Pennsylvania State Highway Department's detour bulletin for the period ending April 19, which is just issued. Detours are noted on the route from Mercer to Oil City, highway 965, and in Oil City.

JURY BLAMES DEATH ON FALL

Inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the death of Thomas Fleck of 510 East Main street, WPA worker, who died in the New Castle hospital Tuesday, took place before Coroner T. F. Nugent in the office of Alderman James C. Brice last evening.

Dr. Samuel Perry, who attended Fleck, stated that when he was brought to the hospital on Tuesday, March 26, he was in a state of shock, as if suffering from a brain injury, and was paralyzed on the left side. He regained consciousness the next afternoon and within a few days regained the use of all his faculties. He had vomited blood the evening he was brought to the hospital. Tuesday morning, April 2, he seemed entirely recovered and asked for something to eat. After drinking a glass of milk, he expired suddenly.

He stated that an autopsy was performed, which failed to reveal the cause of the blood in his stomach, when first brought in. The only evidence of any departure from healthy conditions was found in the brain, where there was indication of an inflammation of the meninges covering the brain.

LOS ANGELES, April 6.—Chloe Davis, the 11-year-old grade school girl with ice-like eyes who "cries inside all the time," continued today to balk crime-wise police authorities and brain-wise psychiatrists by refusing to change her story that she was forced to kill her mother after the latter had killed her two younger sisters and a baby brother. "We are being forced to the conclusion that she is telling the truth," as the statement of police executives and psychiatrists after they had long questioned the unemotional little girl for the second time. "She has added to but not changed her story one iota."

HARRISBURG, April 6.—Admission by Clyde H. Smith, a defendant in the trial of the Earl administration to pay assessments or "lose their jobs" today highlighted the trial of Democratic leaders on macing charges.

Must Have Happened

Although he couldn't recall his testimony to the 1939 indictment grand jury, authorizing former Deputy Attorney General Edward Friedman to warn state workers they would lose their jobs if they failed to pay Smith, chairman of the Dauphin county finance committee, declared "it must have happened" if he had so told the grand jury.

The Democratic state committee, he testified further, employed "no system or plan" to collect assessments during the Earl regime.

Smith, a defendant testified under prodding of Assistant Prosecutor Earl V. Compton that he may have said he "didn't know how word got to state employees" about assessments asked of them.

The defendant explained that his duties as chairman was to coordinate the finance committee's activities and to secure contributions. He never gave orders, he said.

Congress Cuts Fund For Byrd Expedition

Fifty Members Of Antarctic Expedition Are Faced With Need Of Funds

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Some fifty members of the Byrd Antarctic expedition today faced an uncertain future amid the icy wastes because of congressional refusal to give them transportation money home, according to a prediction by President Roosevelt.

In urging appropriation of additional funds for the expedition, the President pointed out that the question of whether these men will return to this country or be forced to stay at their Antarctic bases depended entirely upon getting more money.

The House eliminated an additional appropriation of $250,000 for the expedition this year, but reimbursement of the sum is being considered by a Senate committee. The expedition originally was granted $350,000 to carry for a year's work.

Neutral Nations Facing Early Showdown On War

By PIERRE J. HUSS

BERLIN, April 6.—The German Reich is taking steps to match the Allies' intensification of their economic war activities.

As a result of the Anglo-British action, it was indicated authentically today that the first phase in the showdown struggle over Europe's neutrals has definitely been reached.

The neutrals will be expected over the week-end to choose sides and to identify themselves as "friend or foe."

In other words, the Germans—without handing over notes in the manner of British Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and French Premier Paul Reynaud—have inferentially given the Scandinavians to understand that they must stand up against the Allies without budging an inch.

They must decisively reject British demands and continue their uninterrupted stream of exports to Germany.

Viscount Halifax's recent moves, yesterday's conference between French Minister of Blockade Georges Monnet and Britain's Minister of Economic Warfare Donald Cross, and a reported Anglo-Dutch economic pact are regarded as opening moves in a more active Allied warfare.

LONDON, April 6.—An air blockade—the first in history—today was planned as an important factor in tightening of the Allies' strictures around Germany.

Jewels—gems which once glittered in the coronets of Polish monarchs in between the country's quadruple partition—had an important part in the Allies' decision.

Millions of dollars in jewels seized by the Germans in Poland are being shipped to the United States via trans-Atlantic clipper, authorities in Britain asserted.

To Enforce Air Blockade

"It is not illogical," said a British government spokesman, "that the British and French will enforce an air blockade. In view of disquieting reports that Germany is gaining huge foreign credits and currency through the sale of jewels abroad."

While the Allies planned their air blockade (which might imply further restrictions on American flying boats stopping at Bermuda) attention in the diplomatic field was centered on Scandinavia.

Another Russian attack on Finland "might" involve Allied action, authorities in London said.

German action against Scandinavia "definitely" would call for Allied assistance.

It was understood that these assurances were given in a conference yesterday between the Norwegian and Swedish ministers and Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax.

On the sea, as well as in the air, the Allies planned tightening of the blockade.

Susquehanna River Now Receding

Second Crest Below Earlier

"Clear And Colder" Weather Forecast Expected To Check Flood Waters

REFUGEES BEGIN RETURN TO HOMES

(International News Service)
WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 6.—The flood-filled Susquehanna river slowly receded today in the wake of new crests that fell below earlier flood stages.

The weatherman's "clear and colder" forecast was expected to check snow-melt in the river's headwaters.

Fed by rain and snow, the Susquehanna began to crest a second time yesterday and sent rushing waters over low-lying areas in the Wyoming valley where "clean-up" squads were just beginning to make headway against the muck and debris deposited earlier.

Crest Reached
At Wilkes-Barre, hardest hit of any community, the river began to surge upward yesterday and finally crested at 261 at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

At Towanda, the river passed the 16-foot flood stage and rose to 195 only to recede three-tenths of an inch in a few hours.

Officials at Binghamton, N. Y., reported the waters had fallen to 152 from a midday high of 156 after a three-foot overnight rise.

There was no alarm at Sunbury where the north and west branches of the usually placid Susquehanna meet. The water inched up to 162 and was not expected to approach the 2014 mark established on Monday when thousands of residents fled their homes.

Kinston was still partly awash but flood refugees were returning slowly to their homes while the Red Cross, WPA workers and other relief agencies continued to provide food and other necessary treatment.

SENATE NATIONAL DEFENSE LEADERS WOULD RAISE DEBT

with economy warnings of such legislators as Sens. Adams, Clegg, and Sen. Vandenberg, (R), Mich., but Sheppard was not without support. Senate naval affairs committee Chairman Walsh (D), Mass., supported a navy bill up to budget limits. Sen. Thomas (D) Okla., chairman of the appropriations sub-committee handling the army bill announced he would not approve the reduced figures in the house bill until he had a report from Secretary of War Woodring.

The drive by Sheppard came as the Thomas sub-committee prepared to start hearings on the army bill next week. The military affairs committee chairman acts as an ex-officio member of the appropriations committee on military funds. The latter committee just increased the war department civil functions bill by some $75,000,000 above house figures.

Latitude In Defense
Vandenberg based his opposition to full budget spending in the army bill on the war department's recent release of the most modern types of American military planes for foreign purchase ahead of U. S. army orders. Adams, one of the leading economy advocates in congress, declared this country is in no immediate danger and could well economize on defense.

Countering Sheppard's spending demands, Vandenberg declared: "I can't escape the impression that when the administration suddenly discovers that it can let go its last planes, there is a latitude even in the administration's own defense program which entitles congress to explore the possibility of reasonable curtailment."

Adams added: "It seems to me that it is folly not to wait and take advantage of the lessons of the current war. We are not in any immediate danger. We couldn't use excessive equipment in the army or navy if we had it. Not a nation on earth is going to attack the United States."

The two viewpoints furnished a controversy likely to grow to major proportions before the final vote on the army and navy bills.

ALLIES LAY PLANS FOR CHOKING OFF GERMAN IMPORTS

Paris ministers yesterday by Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and Premier Paul Reynaud.

The notes, it was officially stated, were designed to show small neutral nations they have nothing to gain by acceding to Nazi "browbeating" or Soviet aggression.

At the same time it was reported Germany lashed back at the Allies by advising all neutrals that any modification of their present trade policy with the Reich would be considered "an act of aggression."

Dispatches from Belgrade, Yugoslavia, said Germany has renewed her threats against the Balkan states as a result of the formation of the British Balkan corporation, which has begun financial operations to halt Germany trade with southeastern Europe.

Amsterdam dispatches in London papers said Chancellor Hitler, faced by intensification of the Allied blockade, is trying to persuade Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Germany's financial "wizard" to return to his former post at the head of the Reichsbank and to help coordinate the country's economic efforts.

Attack Via Moscow Radio
(The Moscow radio launched a violent attack on the Norwegian government, demanding the resignation of Norway's parliamentary president.)

(Berlin's radio, citing a Danish newspaper report, charged the Allies are considering landing troops in Norway.)

While officials refused to reveal contents of the Anglo-French messages to Sweden and Norway, it was understood the notes made the following two points:

1. The Allies are resolved to halt German imports of Swedish iron ore via Norwegian territorial waters even though that may entail technical violations of neutrality.

2. If the Soviet union attempts further aggression in Scandinavia, the Allies will expect immediate active cooperation from Sweden and Norway. The Russians would be classed with Germany as an enemy if any battle is fought on Scandinavian soil.

Capt. Hans Olsen, in charge of Pennsylvania railroad police on the Philadelphia division, and Miles Albright, Harrisburg high school teacher, both testified as to Freeland's "good character."

DEALING STACKED CARDS

THERE is, of course, nothing surprising in the preferential primary victories being recorded by advocates of a third term for President Roosevelt. With a well-established and well-oiled party machine, consisting largely of Federal employees, at his disposal, the President can have the nomination if he gives the nod. And, pending such affirmation on his own part, he will continue to win primary favor in comparison with any other Democratic aspirant.

It was the aim of the Hatch Act to minimize the political influence of Federal jobholders. But there are so many indirect and unostentatious ways in which that influence can be exerted prior to a primary election that the negative effect of the anti-politics law will scarcely measure up to what its more zealous supporters had anticipated.

Even in the national party convention, Democrats who have been gobbling big slices of the Federal pie will remain in a commanding position, though they may not appear in person among the assembled delegates. The Organized Democracy, in short, is not the place to look for popular reaction to the third term proposal. In that quarter the cards are already stacked.

THREE MORE STATES?

Cuba, according to a resolution adopted by its legislature, would like to have Puerto Rico become an independent republic. The president of the Puerto Rican senate replied at once that his people did not want independence. Statehood was their aim. That was shown in the last election in the island when a majority of voters expressed a wish to become a permanent part of the United States, not as a dependent possession, but as a responsible member state.

Hawaii has long wanted statehood. Lately Alaskans have begun to ask whether they wouldn't get along better as a state than a territory.

It may be some time before these possessions attain what they want, but it's hard to see why they shouldn't have it sooner or later. There is surely room for three more stars in the flag and even for more senators and representatives in congress.

THOUGHTS ON THE ORIGIN OF SPECIES

Thirty-two years ago, near Paris, Mrs. Edith Ogilvy Druce climbed into the seat of a flimsy airplane alongside Wilbur Wright. Someone, at Wright's suggestion, tied Mrs. Druce's skirt around her ankles with rope, because of the violent draft from that historic propeller. Thereupon, Mrs. Druce became, it is believed, the first woman to fly.

If it had ended there all would have been well. But as she alighted from the plane afterwards, her ankles still bound, the effect was observed by the ever-present agents of the great dressmakers. Then and there one of the weirdest and worst features of the 1910 era, the hobble skirt, was produced, according to Mrs. Druce.

It was a terrible affair in which women minced along like penguins, and if one wanted to catch a train she had to leap and lope like a rabbit or a kangaroo—and even then she missed it.

The discovery of the hobble skirts' origin gives hope that some day, years hence perhaps, some explanation of the present styles in women's hats will be evoked, though it will then be too late to do anything about it.

CONNECTICUT FARMS

Last year not a single Connecticut farmer went bankrupt. More than 600 other persons or firms did, but every last one of the farm operators at least kept his nose above water. This was true also of the farmers of Rhode Island. It was not true of the farmers of any other state in the Union, though bankruptcies among agriculturists throughout the country were almost 25 per cent fewer than they had been in 1938.

This Connecticut record is most gratifying. It indicates pretty well beyond question that, despite the tradition about the difficulty of getting a living from the soil in this part of the country, there are many worse activities than cultivating the ground.

There are more farmers in Connecticut, at that, than there were 10 or a dozen years ago. The back-to-the-soil movement that was a feature of the worst depression years was in this state, no great rush; but it was substantial. And the lack of any bankruptcies at all last year is fairly good evidence that the movement has been at least reasonably successful.—Danbury News Times.

AMERICA'S MUSICAL LEADERSHIP

One short generation ago Americans were regarded by the rest of the world as musical barbarians. We had many music-lovers and even some good composers, but we neither produced nor consumed music to anywhere near the extent common in the old countries. We were hopelessly inferior especially to Germany, then still the great reservoir and fountain-head of modern musical culture.

It is hard to realize today the vast change that has come about. It is no exaggeration to say that leadership in the appreciation, practice and creation of this great art has now shifted to America. Our musical culture is not yet so complete as that of some of the older countries, but it is far more widely spread and enjoyed.

We have borrowed Europe's music and almost drained Europe of its talent. The ablest conductors and composers of all countries now gravitate here finding a welcome and wider opportunity than at home. And native talent is being produced here at an astonishing rate.

We have scores of symphony orchestras. Singing and playing groups spring up everywhere. Concerts are well attended. And our radio chains regularly carry the world's best music to tens of millions. Here is a development probably unique in history.

That silence Summer Welles is maintaining may be golden, but what good is it? We already have more gold than we can use.

It would be quite exciting if some Democrat holding an appointive office under the New Deal could be found who wasn't in favor of the third term.

New Deal is formulating a policy to stimulate the investment of private savings. On its showing, however, the New Deal can hardly recommend itself as an investment medium.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

LITTLE PRAISE GOES FAR

"Dear Dr. Myers: I feel as if I am writing to an old friend because I have read your column for so long. I can't begin to tell you how much it has helped me. I surely need help, too, for I am now only 21 and have three children.

"I have a problem with Shirley Mae. She is just four and the eldest of our children. Jack is two and a half and Betty Jean is just a year. Shirley will smack either one of them because they don't do as she says, and at times she is the most stubborn child I know. And then again she is as different as she can be. She will dry the dishes without being asked and will run and get me things I am looking for.

"She seems to love the other children at times, and then the next time I look she is very very mean to them. She is a very active child and seems to be always into something. She is smart in learning things and has a wonderful memory. I guess I don't have much patience with her, but I always seem to have a million things to do and it gets on my nerves.

Want Suggestions

"Please offer me some suggestions on this matter."

Here was my reply to her: "Please don't be so critical of yourself. To live all day, and for day after day, with three little children is more than most men could endure at all—not to mention the possibility of keeping good-natured.

"As for Shirley Mae, praise her more when she is good. Make it clear to her that since you or her father is there, she need not worry about disciplining the other children. Then, if she persists in doing so, assign her, for each offense, to sit doing nothing in a chair where you can see her, for exactly 30 minutes. Talk does no good.

Treat Her as Older

"Treat Shirley Mae as older than the other children. Let her go to bed half an hour later than they do. You can read stories to her that are too hard for the others to enjoy. Be sure these younger ones do not appropriate or destroy her things. Be exacting. Perhaps they need more discipline than she needs."

IMMIGRATION PROBLEM

There has been so much talk of immigration into the United States from Germany since the persecution of the Jews inaugurated the Nazi reign of terror that it is interesting to see the exact figures. According to statistics published in the New York Herald Tribune, the total immigration of refugees from Germany during the fiscal year 1939 was 27,370, which is nearly half the 58,653 quota visas issued for all countries during the year.

These are the official figures given out by the Department of State at Washington. They represent but a thin trickle as compared to the total population of the United States, even though they do not take into consideration the large number of foreigners who have entered into the United States on tourist and student passports and overstayed their time. Also, it is considerably less than the 657,353 applications for United States visas filed in our consulates abroad during the year 1939, largely in Germany, Austria, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary. When one thinks of the heartbreaks of that waiting line, one doubly appreciates the blessing of living on this side of the Atlantic.

VANISHED CHARM

My father said: "To look at me you'd never think I used to be a handsome, hero, tile and strong. A man of grace and wit and song. You'd never think this poor old dunc."

So foolish now, was marvelous once. Or that your mother couldn't see A solitary flaw in me.

"I'm sure you kids would never guess That natively I used to dress; That all I said was once believed And as gospel truth received. Not once she interrupted me. Or contradicted what I told— But that was in the days of old.

"Yes, once she thought my jokes were new. She'd beg me to repeat them, too. And never, when I took the floor Say: 'Shush! They've all heard that before!'

She liked to listen when I spoke. She liked the pipe I used to smoke And do not doubt me—this is true— She boasted of how much I knew.

"Then, whatso'er I chose to wear Caused neither comment nor despair.

Then never once she said to me: 'Don't sing! You're always off the key!'

Or shook her head and whispered low: 'My dear, you know that isn't so! I once outranked all other men. But I was just her sweetest then.'

Good Taste

See U. S. Patent Office

"Eat to suit yourself, but dress to suit others," sayeth the wise saw. I am reminded of it by a letter just received from a man complaining because his wife, although pretty, shows poor taste in the arrangement of her hair and in the selection of hats. He says he has repeatedly pleaded with her in vain to change her coiffure and that when he goes with her to select her hats she invariably disregards his advice, selecting "frights" that offend his eyes whenever he has to look at them.

"Her family backs up my judgment that her taste in these items is terrible," he wails. "How can any woman hope to hold a man when the very sight of her irritates him?"

How can she, indeed. Poor husband! Poor wife! Poor taste!

Readers' Questions Answered
Dear Miss Markel: To settle a dispute, please tell me if guests at a church wedding should stand or remain seated. I think they should stand during the ceremony only.—Bride

Answer: Upon their arrival at the church, guests are shown to their proper pews by the ushers. They are seated and remain seated until the organist plays "The Wedding March" and the bridal procession starts up the aisle.

Then the "audience" should rise and remain standing during the entire ceremony and the recessional, except at Catholic ceremonies where they may be required to kneel.

Guests should not leave their pews until the parents of the bride and groom, followed by the guests "within the ribbons" have been escorted to the door.

WE DO
We are in receipt of an estimate from a livestock man that if all the cattle in the country moved four abreast at four miles an hour, it would take them more than four months to pass a given point.

The estimate is rather intriguing. But don't you think the idea is rather impractical?

After a man watched a gum-chewing stenographer for a few minutes he resolved never again to chew gum in public.

What's What At A Glance

Chances Of Bridges Are Discussed
Has Made Tremendous Gains In Race
Classes Self As Liberal Conservative

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, April 6.—In his own peculiar way, Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire is as interesting a candidate for the next Presidential nomination as there is in the field. Not only is he interesting; he's amusing.

I'd bet 100 to 1 that he won't be nominated. A few weeks ago I'd have bet 1,000 to 1. I think any political commentator would have agreed with me then, and that the cognoscenti will agree with me, on the 100 to 1 basis, yet. But there's quite a difference between 1,000 to 1 and 100 to 1.

And as to the vice presidential nomination? Well, as to that, the anti-Bridges chances remain enormously more than one.

But never in American history has a White House aspirant gone after his desired job with the energy Senator Bridges has. Never has one started from scratch and gained on the rest of the field as he has done. Why, not more than three months ago, his proposal of himself, as an occupant of the executive mansion, didn't even attract a "pooh-pooh" from practical politicians. The other day, though, I clipped an editorial comment to the purport that "We need another New Englander (another Calvin Coolidge) at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue."

Senator Bridges was the individual obviously referred to.

Absolutely Unprecedented
Bridges simply has gone after that nomination absolutely unprecedentedly.

He set up an organization which rivals the activities of the G. O. P. national committee. The mail of every political writer in the country is flooded with his publicity. He's made speeches here, there and everywhere. He's getting acquainted with the "Bridges" energy is funny. His publicity manager is Carlisle Barger.

I asked Carlisle about him.

"He's a liberal conservative," said Carlisle. "He expects to be the standard bearer of the reconstructed Republican party."

The fact is, I take it, that Bridges is counting a good deal more on 1944 than on 1940. Perhaps he realizes the hundreds-to-1 odds against him this time (though he doesn't recognize 'em). He wouldn't have good sense if he didn't. But he's gambling on his own (and Carlisle's) prophecy.

1940?—Unk! Unk!

The New Hampshire statesman is only 42 years old. Even in 1944 he still will be presidentially plenty young. He's young for a senator now. They say a presidential aspirant ought to have had executive experience. One of the counts against Thomas E. Dewey is that he hasn't had any. But Senator Bridges has, young as he is. He's been governor of New Hampshire. He's a lawyer, an economist, quite an authority on agriculture and a first-class business man.

He qualifies all right, as to all the technicalities.

His geography is wrong, to be sure. Presidential candidates generally are chosen from politically doubtful states, and New Hampshire normally is safely Republican. Besides, it hasn't as large a population as a presidential state ought to have. That is, it doesn't cast a big enough vote.

New England is in a somewhat out-of-the-way corner of the country, too. At least theoretically it hasn't much appeal to Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and farther west, or to Dixie, either.

Getting Acquainted
But Senator Bridges is attending to that latter detail by getting personally acquainted everywhere. He's (Continued On Page Five)

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

The Wisconsin Warning

WASHINGTON, April 6.

The effort to interpret last Tuesday's primary results in Wisconsin and New York as favorable to the Roosevelt third-term movement is strained, hollow and absurd. It involves ignoring the facts. It is designed for the consumption of the boobies.

THE truth is that the more clear-headed among the White House politicians are sick about the results, and have good reason to be. The plain meaning of the figures is that while Mr. Roosevelt may be renominated, through the weight of the jobholder machine, he cannot be elected. That has been the conviction of most observers for a long time. The primaries merely confirm it. If they do not mean that, they do not mean anything.

ON form, Mr. Roosevelt should have beaten Mr. Garner in Wisconsin 10 or even 20 to 1. There was every expectation that he would. No one thought Mr. Garner had so much as a ghost of a chance of prevailing. Behind the Roosevelt state was the solid phalanx of Federal jobholders. Mr. Leo Crowley, head of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and a power in Wisconsin politics, spent two weeks in the State. Interested in rolling up an overwhelming vote were the AAA army of agents, check receivers and committeemen. The regular Democratic machine lined up on the Roosevelt side, and the La Follette Progressives, a best-disciplined political element in the country were swung into line for the President.

WITH all this against him, Mr. Garner, with no organization, no jobholders, no personal following, no money and no chance, polled one-third as many votes as Mr. Roosevelt—a total of nearly 100,000. It was really an astonishing showing. Its significance lies in the fact that these 100,000 came out to vote not because they admired Mr. Garner, not because they were not fully aware he had no chance of carrying the primaries, and no chance of being nominated if taured this nation with a thoroughness probably unequalled in history. He can talk sympathetically and understandingly to any kind of an audience, from plutocrats down to share-croppers.

Versatility is Bridges' middle name. Or it would be if he had a middle name. Originally his name was Henry Styles Bridges, but he dropped the "Henry" because, he says, most great Americans have had only two names—like George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, Grover Cleveland, Woodrow Wilson, Herbert Hoover and others. Cleveland, Wilson and Hoover started with three names apiece, by the way, but jettisoned one-third each, just as formerly Henry Styles Bridges is doing. He doesn't overlook a single consideration.

And if he keeps up his present publicity lick, who shall say that he won't "get away with it" sooner or later?

McNair's Charges Passed Off As Joke

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, April 6—U. S. Senator Joseph P. Guffey's Allegany county campaign manager today passed off as "just a little joke" the charge of former Mayor William N. McNair that both his Democratic senatorial opponents were "carpetbaggers" not even residing in Pennsylvania.

McNair found that Guffey had not lived at the Pittsburgh residence he listed as his legal abode for two years. He found that Walter A. Jones, also a senatorial candidate, is listed as a resident of Washington, D. C. to all of which Patrick T. Fagan, Guffey's local campaign manager observed:

"Mr. McNair must have his little joke. It wouldn't be a real political campaign without our former mayor and his sidekicks."

HICCUGHS
Hiccoughs are an affliction that ordinarily cause a good deal of laughter and very seldom bring the victim much sympathy. Indeed most people, even those who see nothing amusing when someone else has them, regard them as pretty trivial and unimportant. Nevertheless, many cases of hiccough require the attention of a doctor. Every few months we read of some person dying because his hiccoughs couldn't be stopped.

The hiccough is caused by a sudden and violent contraction of the diaphragm. This causes air to be drawn sharply into the lungs. Ordinarily, when you breathe in, your vocal cords are held apart, but when a hiccough strikes you, these cords are sucked together and close off the passage. It is this sudden and involuntary closing of the passage that brings your diaphragm up with a sudden halt and makes the sharp noise that has given the affliction its name.

Usually, hiccoughs occur at from six to fifteen a minute. But I have known bad cases where the unfortunate patient hiccoughed away at more than sixty to the minute. In most cases there wouldn't be more than a few spasms except that we begin expecting more to happen, and we wait for the next and the next and the next. In other words, many hiccoughs continue merely by expectancy. More than once I have cured a child of an attack of hiccoughs merely by distracting his attention from his spasms for a minute or so. In fact, as your mother will tell you, a good scare is one of the oldest household remedies for hiccoughs, and because it distracts attention of the victim, it is still one of the best.

The most common cause of hiccoughs is some disturbance in the stomach. You mothers know how often the baby has suffered from them when he has taken too much milk. In older people they are sometimes brought on by violent exertion.

Marakas is building a new restaurant. Dances will be conducted at Rainbow Terrace again.

Spring paving program is destined to start April 19. . . . Angeline Marone, has been issued a city permit to construct a frame garage at 211 East Cherry street, at an estimated cost of $150.00. . . . Radio Technician Wayne Sines had replaced some parts of the police radio and it now is reported operating better than ever. It is a one-way system.

Storm Wednesday did not cause as much debris as Street Director W. H. Dunlap anticipated. Some limbs, felled by the wind, were removed yesterday. . . . Neil Williams, city engineer's department, has prepared a map showing the city by precincts.

Finance Director James L. Fink today was preparing a March cost sheet for city officials. . . . Three persons were arrested by police in March for operating an auto without consent of the owner. One was arrested for reckless driving and three for speeding. . . . A city police cruiser was operating in Albert street yesterday. . . . Residents welcomed the move to prevent speeding there.

That epidemic fever is here again—and we mean spring fever. Spring fever affects different people in different ways. No doubt spring is about the gladdest time of the year. After months of cold, wet, dark days, the sun warms all life. Some watch the unfolding of spring with a quiet joy of heart. Others rush out and revel enthusiastically with spring. Many persons suffer a slight delirium with the advent of spring. They renew strenuous outdoor activities hailed last fall. They suddenly play too much golf, tennis, too much everything. A gradual start in exercising is called for in the spring. Weakened muscles need a build-up—not a sudden strain on them. One can't spring back like a steel spring in the spring.

"To my valentine," it said. It was a sincere tribute, however, and not a cynical dart at sheriffs, judges and the like for silhouetted beneath the inscription was the face of a typical mortal.

RENOVIZE Your Home — Farm — Store — Factory NOW

AND PUT NEW CASTLE'S UNEMPLOYED TO WORK

The character of the surrounding grounds of a home or other building is of great importance. Right surroundings give satisfaction to the owner and occupants. All who pass are favorably impressed with the property and the people of the community as well. Right surroundings also add to the real value of the property. The cost of making and keeping surroundings right is small in proportion to that satisfaction and increased value.

NOW

It is time to start this part of your RENOVIZE program so that grading and new grass seeding can be done, new shrubs set out, flower gardens laid out, and the work completed by the time the new foliage comes out. Cement, brick or stone drives, walks and walls properly constructed give an appearance of permanence and character to any property, and the year-after-year upkeep is reduced to a minimum. They cost little more at the beginning and save money in the long run.

NOW

There is good unemployed labor available NOW that is in urgent need of work. Action NOW will mean prompt service and reasonable cost. A delay may encounter changed conditions

Consult your architect, landscape gardener, contractor, repairman, or dealer, according to your needs, or the Greater New Castle Association will be glad to furnish a list of names of those who are in a position to serve you. The Division of Unemployment Compensation and Employment Service, Phone 5440, will be glad to give you the names of unemployed persons who are listed as in need of work.

Local banks and Building and Loan Associations have available, on their regular or F.H.A. loan plans, plenty of funds for modernization and rehabilitation. Contractors and dealers are able to assist you if desired.

Full information will be furnished upon request.

Two Stars Are Tied For Lead In Golf Tourney

TRICKY GREENS BOTHER GOLFERS

By LESTER RICE
International News Service Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6.—Six strokes, by sundry shadings, separated no less than seventeen candidates as the masters medal-play tournament ventured into its third round upon the Augusta national links today.

It was quite impossible even for one gifted with second sight to foretell the winner although the man who bid in Sammy Snead for $1,200 at the Calcutta pool still thought he had a good bet. Going into the crucial third round, Snead was only four strokes behind the pace without yet having had a spectacular round.

"I think I'm due, don't you?" he asked after he had come in with a par of 72 yesterday.

Picard Putts Poorly

The old dodge of planting cups on little knolls put a stoppage to the sensational scoring which marked the opening day and stripped the second round of much interest. The cup at the fourteenth hole was so craftily placed that Henry Picard, one of the finest putters in the game, hit the ball four times on the green before the ball entered the cup.

In consequence only one round receded under 70. That was the 68 fashioned by Marvin (Bud) Ward, the national amateur champion, who appears to be in the same heated frame of mind which made him a strong factor in the last U. S. open at Spring Hill.

Lloyd Mangrum, whose 64 instituted a record for the layout Thursday, played so cautiously as to take 75 which included five short putts which rimmed the cups. At 139 Mangrum found himself deadlocked with his fellow Texan, Jimmy Demaret, whose second effort was five strokes above his initial 67.

Sports World Ramblings

Reporter's paradise—In our book banquets get top billing. Not because such occasions afford a big opening (which we seldom turn down) to get choice grub on the house, or because of the good friendship that prevails, but from a journalistic standpoint. News items seem to float all over the room, even under the table cloths. A good pair of ears and a memory tantamount to that of an elephant's are the prime requisites, so far as a reporter is concerned....

As an example, we shift to the Shenango Township High gymnasium, scene of a banquet honoring the football and basketball squads. The room was ultra prolific in a news sense. We gleaned enough grist for the mill to fill a book, but, of course, some of it is strictly on the "q. t." From the time we entered the East New Castle institution until we left, some of the things we picked up....

Paul Minner prefers baseball to basketball. Grover C. Washabaugh, Westminister coach, and Dave Boyd, the physical education boss, say the elongated cage star has a mean fast ball which whizzes by like a bullet. The Titan tutors understand that the Pittsburgh Pirates are interested in Minner. Last year, with a Pittsburgh outfit, Minner's pitching was most satisfactory to the boys who count....

Suddenly, someone asked if Minner would be wearing a Westminister suit after he graduates. "Minner is only 16 and has another year at New Wilmington. Seeing that he likes baseball so well, Paul will likely favor an eastern school which includes baseball. I'd like very much to have him. He'd fit in nicely with my plans," Washabaugh answered....

A couple of dejected young ladies across the table were discussing what they considered a staff blow. We extended the ears (eavesdropping style) and learned that there will not be any girls' teams in the county next year. Reasons, partly financial and lack of competition. Not enough teams around here....

Independent Loop To Close League At Next Meeting

The County Independent baseball league will meet next Wednesday night at Carm's place to close the league and to collect franchise money. No teams will be admitted after next Wednesday, it was announced today by Carm DeLeone president of the league.

There is room in the league for a few more teams. If any of the following teams want in the league they must have managers at the Wednesday session: Edenburg, Hillsville, Colored Elks, Plaingrove, and South Hills.

Frank Nocera, Shenango coach, casually remarked that Class B schools have decided to add softball to the athletic program. The schedule is being drawn up. Union, New Wilmington, Bessemer, Shenango, East Brook, Wampum, Mt. Jackson and West Pittsburgh, a newcomer in Class B sports circles, will compete....

Up popped someone with the question, "Is it true Westminister had a chance to book Carnegie Tech?" Washabaugh answered the question affirmatively and hinted that Tech and the Titans may match grid wits come 1941. Washabaugh asserted that Tech's inquiry for a game this season came after Westminister had already completed its schedule....

Another inquisitive person wanted to know why Westminister doesn't step out in football. This, of course, caused the genial mentor to adjust his coat, move around in his seat and smile. It was evident that Washabaugh had had enough questions slung at him, especially while in the midst of a banquet dinner. He obliged, however, with, "Perhaps someday, and maybe soon, for all we know. As you know, we meet West Virginia this season. And the Mountaineers aren't exactly pushovers..."

From football, basketball came in for another play. This time, a lad wanted to know what Washabaugh thought of the elimination of the center jump. "I don't like it. The game has taken on the form of a horse race. It doesn't help growing young men. It's too tough." And, about the removal of the bank boards? "The change would probably bring about a more open game from mid court. More shooting and less scrambling under the hoops, the mentor replied....

One of the lads informed us that Shenango hasn't lost a grid game at home during the past two years. They have been tied, however.... A charming Miss told us that Shenango's girls have won the girls' championship for two years. Some of the other items were too good to listen to and are worthy of space, but, too hot to handle right now....

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Johnny Dean has started training for his six round bout with Jimmie Bivins of Cleveland at Cleveland, April 15. Teddy Yarosz and Jimmie Reeves, the latter a former Golden Gloves middleweight champion will appear in the windup.

Baseball results: Penn beat Drexel, 13-2; Connecticut trimmed Temple, 4-0 and Princeton defeated Penn State 2-0.

Claim Panacea For Frostbite Found By French

Vitamins Aid In Relieving Frost-bitten Feet Is Assertion

(International News Service)
PARIS.—Chilblains, frostbite and frozen feet will soon become unknown ailments in the French army. For two French scientists claim to have discovered the Vitamin B is the panacea for these ills.

After studying hundreds of medical documents concerning the last World War, Professor Champy and Dr. Gouffard noticed that while Germans and Belgians were very seldom touched by frostbite, French and British troops were. Furthermore, they learned the Chinese were often frostbitten and also city persons while peasants seemed practically immune.

Comparison of various kinds of bread and rice caused these two scientists to believe that rice and fine-quality breads entirely lacked necessary vitamin B, while whole-wheat bread was plentifully supplied.

In 1914 the Germans ate "KK-bread" while the Allies were supplied with white bread and branless. Now, upon Professor Champy's indications, the French Army Service Corps will shortly add certain chemicals to the flour in order to provide soldiers with a special medicated bread eliminating frostbite and chilblains.

Arabian Hospital Uses Apple Sauce To Treat Ulcers

Claim Raw Apple Scrappings Used To Prevent Infection

(International News Service)
KALAMAZOO, Mich.—Probably the only hospital of its kind in the world where apple sauce is used for treatment of ulcers and where patients prefer the cement floor to a bed—flourishes at Muscat in Arabia. Dr. Paul W. Harrison, they call him "the desert doctor" because of his 30 years as a medical missionary in Arabia, gave a graphic picture of the hospital and its patients while here on a vacation.

"The hospital has accommodations for 50," he said. "There are six beds but we don't use them much, because the people don't like to lie on them for they feel the beds are too soft and do not support their bones. That's why they like the cement floor as a resting place."

In discussing the "apple sauce" treatment of ulcers, the doctor pointed out that it is not cooked apple sauce but rather a scraped raw apple and it is used as a means of stopping the infection.

About a half an inch of the sauce is applied each day after which the patient returns home, the doctor said. After this treatment is used and the ulcer is clean, it is covered with cod liver oil. An elastic adhesive bandage is used as a covering while passive vascular exercise stimulates the blood action.

FROM ME TO YOU By MESEALL

According to a report that has reached this desk from the desk of the traffic commissioner, the parking meters on one side of Mill street, one block north and one block south of East Washington street, will be removed and parking in this section will be prohibited. The reason for this change is very clear... many accidents occur in this narrow section or bottle neck... when parking is prohibited the street will be that much wider for motorists. A very strong safety program will be worked out within the city limits this summer... the Mayor is really going to put his foot down... and when our present Mayor does a thing like that it usually means advancement to our community. So cooperate with the police department this summer, park where you are supposed to, stop at all traffic "Stop" signs and traffic lights... and drive carefully over our streets... just because you don't like children, don't think everyone agrees with you.

During the past year and a half quite a few dogs have been exchanged from one home to another through the contacts made in this column. Right at present we haven't an address for a dog that the owner wants to give away. However, there are several requests for a bulldog, collie, fox terrier, and a good watchdog. If anyone has a dog that would answer these requirements, they can write this desk and their address and description of dog will be published.

A book was handed to this desk from the New Castle Credit Exchange... the text of the book concerns schemes that we folks should know... for example, this bit of news about Fur Farms... "Animal breeding promotions or fur farms are sometimes demoted through biological statistics which appear mathematically sound, but which neglect to include the natural hazards to such enterprises. Many include worthless offers to buy back the progeny at high but fictitious prices... and buy-back contracts. They are frequently worthless promises made by dishonest promoters." There are many schemes that we people should know about, and from time to time this paper will publish scheme games.

Russian Newspaper Says Germany Needs Many Raw Materials

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 6.—Britain today hailed with sensational headlines a statement purportedly published in a leading Russian newspaper declaring Germany cannot fight a victorious war without certain vital materials cut off by the allied blockade.

British newspapers and a British broadcasting company news bulletin broadcast in the German language quoted the newspaper Pravda, organ of the Communist party, as saying:

"If a country does not have nitrates, cotton and rubber; and if it lacks copper and bauxite; and if its tin mines have not been operated in years; if its oil production is insignificant and if it hasn't any sulphur reserves — one can safely say that such a country cannot conduct a war. That rule can safely be applied to Germany."

(Editor's note: Moscow dispatches made no mention of the Pravda article.)

Amateur Night Program Given

Pupils Representing W. P. A. Centers Perform At Pearson Street Community Center

Talented pupils representing WPA centers throughout the county scored a hit Friday night with an amateur night program presented in the Pearson street community center.

More than 400 persons watched the children present an unusually entertaining program. Angelo Filigenzi, Jr., aged 4, made his debut despite the immensity of the crowd, the boy played the violin as if he was at home practicing. His presentation was easily one of the highlights of the evening. Louis Pagano accompanied the lad.

Agnes Marie Zackee, an Ellwood City girl, made her initial public appearance. The six year old youngster pleased the gathering with an enjoyable piano selection.

At the conclusion, Mrs. Agnes Howley spoke briefly. Henry Bogdon introduced Tina Johns who served as master of ceremonies.

The program was presented under the auspices of the education-recreation division, and was as follows:

New Diagnostic X-Ray Machine Being Installed

Sometime next week, a new Westminster mobile diagnostic X-ray unit will be ready for use in the New Castle hospital.

This unit, which is now being assembled, will offer an added convenience to doctors and patients. The apparatus is ideally suited for examining a patient too ill to be removed from bed or a person immobilized on a fracture table or bed. Further, with certain examinations, patients will not have to be moved from an operating room to the X-ray department.

X-ray pictures and fluoroscopic examinations can be made immediately at time of operating room procedures, as the mobile unit has the added equipment of a Lyshon Grid and hand fluoroscope.

The shock-proof grounded tube-head, hermetically sealed and filled with oil, insures complete electrical safety.

The compact multipane is about 80 inches in height, 26 inches wide and approximately 30 inches long.
